

March 12, 2018
Jenifer Hiigli
CSE department
Paul G. Allen School of Computer Science & Engineering
University of Washington
185 E Stevens Way NE Seattle, WA 98195

Dear Miss Jenifer Hiigli,

My name is Christopher Barker, and I have multiple peers that express the positive quality of academic learning they have received at University of Washington (UW) campuses in Seattle and Tacoma. I had opportunities to experience open seminars and was impressed by the informative lectures which resulted in serious desire to become a UW husky for provided internships. The purpose of this document is for the CSE (Computer Science and Engineering) internship. According to a Professor at UW, Michael Ernst who has multiple publications online about software and programming languages explained, in the article on the UW website, "Internship Opportunities" that there are multiple reasons to do an internship such as:

- To become exposed to company ways of thinking and working.
- Provide different skills than research jobs.
- Collaborate with real customers and see a visible impact in the industry.
- Determine multiple industry essentials even when careers align in academia.

The UW internship would benefit me by counting two credits of CSE 301 and these skills learned from the experience will be used to collaborate with other students. Based on prior exposure to lectures becoming a UW husky will increase my effectiveness in the industry by learning and utilizing skills learned in provided UW internships. Jenifer Hiigli, would you please, at your earliest convenience, review the resume provided and call me at the provided phone number if my credentials are on par with requirements. Being in this internship would provide the next step in my career and benefit the husky name by having another student privileged with that title. Thank you in advance for a prompt response.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read 'C. Barker', with a long horizontal flourish extending to the right.

Christopher D. S. Barker
CDSBSiDiYa@iCloud.com
(253)353-4474